

Abstract

The invention relates to methods for potentiating, enhancing or restoring glucose responsiveness in pancreatic islets or cells. The methods can be used as therapies for diseases caused by, or coincident with, aberrant glucose metabolism, such as Type II Diabetes Mellitus.

5